Health services

The city of Sochi has an excellent system of public health services and a well-developed medical infrastructure, able to meet fully all requirements of the 2014 Winter Olympic and Paralympic Games and to offer modern health services to all those who come to the Olympic Games.

The basic obligations of the International Olympic Committee in the sphere of health services at the forthcoming Olympic Games of 2014 in the city of Sochi are:

1. Granting free medical first aid to all those arriving at the Games and free health services to all members of the Olympic family. The legislation of the Russian Federation guarantees high-quality health services to all people who arrive at the Olympic Games
2. Improvement of the medical infrastructure and attraction of medical experts from all over the country.
3. Sochi has a reliable and effective plan of medical actions in conditions of accidents and emergency situations.

There is a Plan of medical and sanitary-and-epidemiologic measures developed for unconditional and timely performance of the obligations in preparation and performance of the XXII Winter Olympic Games and XI Paralympic Winter Games of 2014 in Sochi, which defines the principal actions, planned schedule of performance, sources of financing and contractors.

Within the framework of preparation of the Sochi health service under the regional targeted program "Support for building Olympic facilities and development of Sochi as an alpine climatic and balneal resort" by 2011, works have been performed to reconstruct municipal medical institutions. A new building of City Hospital No. 8 has been commissioned. The hospital is equipped with the most advanced medical equipment of leading world manufacturers – a TOSHIBA magnetic resonance imaging scanner, 64-layer computed tomography scanner, modern digital x-ray devices, and a specialist ultrasonic diagnostic system.

For the first time in Sochi "Clean Premises" technologies have been employed to set up operating theaters. This technology helps to supply laminar sterile air flows to create a nonbacterial environment in the operating room.

The following will be built in 2011–2013:

- 300 apartments for medical workers.
- Surgical unit of Municipal Hospital No. 4 for 360 beds and 100 visits,
- Surgical unit of Municipal Hospital No. 6 for 40 beds,
- Infectious Diseases Hospital No. 2 for 300 beds,
- Polyclinic department in Razdolnoye village for 140 visits a day,
- Polyclinic department in Veseloye village for 100 visits a day.

The fleet of ambulances will be fully replaced (70 units of class "B" and 20 units of class "C" – mobile intensive care units).

The Plan's actions provide for the organization of training of medical personnel in higher and advanced vocational training establishments, including in skills of communication in foreign languages.

A Plan of medical evacuation measures is developed covering any emergency that could occur during the preparation and performance of the XXII Winter Olympic Games and XI Paralympic Games of 2014. An approved training schedule will assist in bringing the medical establishments into practical readiness to receive patients and render first aid and specialized medical assistance if especially dangerous infections are suspected or there are victims of acts of terrorism with the application of chemical weapons, biological means and radioactive substances.

The measures within the scope of responsibility of the Sochi municipal administration are to be implemented by the Health Services Working Group.
